CHILDREN'S HOMES, INC.

Dear Northside.

THANK YOU! What a wonderful Christmas all of our children here at Children's Homes, INC, had thanks to you! How amazing it is to know there are so MANY people who care about our children.

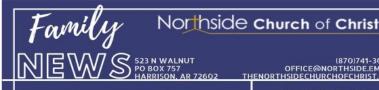

Many, many gifts were unwrapped and continue to be enjoyed. Smiles and laughter were abundant!!! And, we've already taken the children in care to a couple of Arkansas State University basketball games with money donated specifically for "doing something fun for the kids."

Your thoughtfulness and sacrifices help our children to overcome difficult challenges of the past and learn to set goals for the future. Thank you for giving our children a wonderful Christmas, But more importantly showing them love and generosity by sharing with them.

Thank you again for your help with the Christmas gifts. We pray you will have a wonderful and prosperous 2024!

Sincerely,

Micah Brinkley Executive Director

ISSUE NO. 03

Our grandparents' generation embraced the virtue of hard work. Rising early, giving best effort, going to bed tired and ready to sleep was a way of life for them. Some of their hard work was by necessity. Most was because they understood that hard work was wholesome and good. It described a good character and was the right way to live.

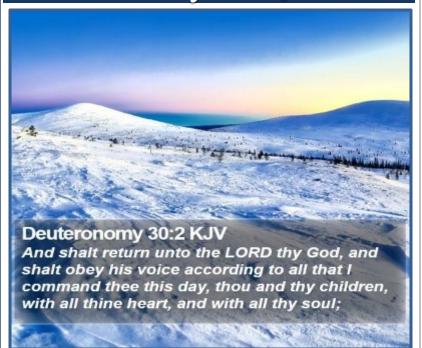

Working hard is healthy for us. Studies show that the human body operates best when it is physically exerted. Walking, pushing, pulling, stepping, lifting, exercising, working out physically challenges the body - and this is healthy. Sitting around, overeating, staring at screens, and barely moving is unhealthy and promotes aches and pains.

Working hard is a moral virtue sometimes lost in our modern times. Employers often find it difficult to find hard workers: those who arrive early, work hard even when the boss isn't looking, stay late: all for the joy of doing one's best, working with excellence because it is not only good, but good FOR you.

Proverbs 24:30-34: I went past the field of the sluggard, past the vineyard of the man who lacks judgment; thorns had come up everywhere, the ground was covered with weeds, and the stone wall was in ruins. I applied my heart to what I observed and learned a lesson from what I saw: A little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to rest - and poverty will come on you like a bandit and scarcity like an armed man.

This is godly wisdom, probably penned by Solomon. The king became wise by the grace of God. There is quite simply something fundamental about hard work which speaks to a committed Christian, someone, who, like Solomon, seeks to please God and follow his commandments. We are told (Colossians 3:23) "Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for men"... shoddy work, half-finished work, work done without full engagement - these are not things we can offer to God, and they are in no way part of the excellence we strive for in being like Christ. It follows then that we should work as hard as we are physically able to, using the gifts God endowed us with, so that whatever we do, we can stand back and look at it, pleased with our efforts and then give it to God. Freely, humbly and with the satisfaction of knowing we have both done our best and offered the fruits of our labor back to Him to whom we owe everything. Stephen Powers
